PSA Profile

Finland's leading squash player Olli Tuominen has enjoyed a consistently successful career on the PSA World Tour since joining the PSA in 1997.

And, despite turning 32 in April 2011 - and boasting a career-high world ranking of 13 more than five years earlier - Tuominen crashed back into the world top 20 in June after a 25-month absence from the elite list.

Tuominen claimed his maiden Tour title at the Lakeshore Classic in the USA in 1998 – but achieved one of the best runs of his career in 2010 when he reached three finals, with title triumphs in two.

It was in February 2010 that the 'Flying Finn' celebrated his third successive title success in the Finnish Open, beating compatriot Henrik Mustonen in the established event's first ever all-Finnish final.

A month later he triumphed again in the Pacific Athletic Club Open, winning the 10th Tour title of his career in the US 2-star event.

But in September, Tuominen recorded his 16th final appearance in the Colombian Open – reaching the final in Bogota without dropping a game, before bowing out to local hero Miguel Angel Rodriguez.

The Helsinki-based Tuominen began his 2011 campaign with a last 16 berth in the North American Open unseeded – then made it through to the last eight of the Irish Open in Dublin.

But his best success of the year to date came in May in Egypt where, again unseeded, he reached the last four of the Hurgada International. His breakthrough came in the opening round when he ousted fourth-seeded Frenchman Thierry Lincou – his semi-final berth in the PSA International 70 event pushing him back into the world top 20 the following month.

PSA Profile

In 2010 Bradley Hindle (or Bradley Hindle-Deguara as known in Malta) had a successful year both professionally and representatively. In February he started a strong professional tournament year by performing in the Finnish Open making the semi finals and following that result up by winning the prestigious Belgium Open two weeks later and only dropping one set in the tournament.

Hindle-Deguara continued his winning performances by qualifying and making the quarter finals of the Pacific Athletic Open in San Francisco, defending his Malta Open title for the 2nd year running and was selected to represent Malta for the Commonwealth Games in both singles and doubles.

Bradley entered the Irish Open as a lead up event to the Commonwealth Games. He prevailed in qualification delivering superb performances qualifying and then reaching the quarterfinals of this major tour event.

To round off 2010 he again qualified for his last two events of the year the Santiago Open and the London Open. His solid first round efforts delivered him much high appraisal and securing his position amongst the world top players. The stage is now all set for 2011 to be a promising and exciting year.
